COUPON BLUES

Coupon blues set in about the last day of each month when someone suddenly wakes up to realize that she hasn't "spent" all her stamps, or that she missed the dates when some of them were due. A commando raid by the kitchen battalion on the makers of coupon dates is indicated.

Why, ask the women, do sugar dates run out one day? Coffee dates another? Blue and red stamps cease to be good if you haven't used them on a certain day? Gas coupons stop operating the red pump 24 hours after the appointed time?

Why not, ask the same belligerent questioners, make all the coupons good for a month at a time, from the first to the last day, rather than overload an already overloaded calendar with dates like the 15th, the 21st, the 22nd? Since we already have a Gregorian calendar, why not suit the coupon calendar to it?

But until such reforms are instituted, the newspapers print your coupon remembrance dates. The multi-unit retailers, as well as the progressive independent merchants, carefully make every change in point value on the canned goods, and post the number of the stamp then valid, and the dates for its acceptance.

Your grocer, at times, grows groggy with the changes he must make. He never dares to be wrong in the information he gives you on the subject, on pain of losing your friendship! So, patiently attack the problem of studying the signs in your grocer's store, and by carefully reading your newspaper.

READING & WRITING

BY Edwin Seaver AND Robin McKoun

WHEN Wendell Willkie was in Turkey, on his recent memorable trip around the world, the Axis radio complained of his presence in this neutral country. Mr. Willkie's answer to this was simple. "Invite Hitler," he said, "to send to Turkey, as a representative of Germany, his opposition candidate." Thus, succinctly, he expresses the fundamental difference between our country and the fascist nations.

WENDELL WILLKIE

Mr. Willkie tells about his global junket in a new book, "One World," which was promptly selected by the Council on Books in Wartime as their third "Imperative" book recommended to the nation. In this book, Mr. Willkie gives an engrossing account of his meetings with Stalin, Chiang Kai-shek and other United Nations leaders, as well as with the common people of their countries. He reports that a great awakening is going on among the peoples of the world and expresses his deep conviction that the United Nations must learn to work together now, while they fight, if they hope to live together in peace after the war is over.

One chapter in Mr. Willkie's book deals with his visit to the Siberian Republic of Yakutsk. Besides gold, one of the main products of this country is fur. Muratov, President of the Council of People's Commissars, remarked that squirrel pelts were of no value unless the animals had been shot through the eye. When Mr. Willkie expressed a polite skepticism about this, Muratov stood his ground. All Yakutsk hunters, he said, when mobilized into the Red Army, are so good that they are classified automatically as snipers.

All over China, Willkie received a warm welcome, particularly so in Chungking, where the crowd which greeted him exceeded anything he had experienced even during his presidential campaign. At a dinner in Chungking occurred an episode which he remembered later with delight. One of his party had been ill the day before from Chinese food, so for this evening they were served with good old-fashioned vanilla ice cream. He expressed his pleasure to the Mayor, who explained: "In April, the medical authorities had feared that China would be swept by a cholera epidemic, and since cholera was spread by milk they passed a municipal ordinance making it a criminal offense to serve ice cream. But," he added, "yesterday I decided that ice cream is such a delicacy and we are so pleased that Mr. Willkie came to Chungking. I just repealed the ordinance for one day so we could serve you ice cream tonight."

LAUNCH FIRE
PREVENTION
DRIVE IN STATEOffer Opportunity
For Everyone To Aid

California's second wartime fire prevention campaign opened, Monday, May 17, and will continue throughout the fire season, according to announcement by regional forester S. B. Show, U. S. Forest Service. Sponsored by all protection agencies in the state, this campaign offers an opportunity for Californians to not only preach and practice fire prevention, but to take an active part this summer in the fire battle by joining the newly created branch of Civilian Defense, known as the Forest Fire Fighters Service or Triple-FS.

"In these times of emergency," said Show, "it is vital to the Nation's war effort that our resources of forests, water and farm lands be well guarded against fires started by human carelessness, saboteurs or possible enemy bombing. Wood is now one of the critical war materials, and the same is true of meat, hides, wool and many agricultural crops. Without these products of our forests, ranges, farms and orchards we cannot hope for an early victory.

"The leaders of our armed forces clearly recognize the effect of large forest and brush fires on war activities. The haze of smoke which each year hangs over coastal and mountain areas seriously hinders air and sea patrol and submarine detection, while the glow of fires serve as a beacon for a lurking enemy. Last year the Japs bombed the Oregon forests; this year it may be California's turn.

"The Federal, State and County protection agencies and the lumbermen of California will be faced with a tremendous fire control problem this summer," continued forester Show. "The pool of manpower is very shallow. Many of our trained fire fighters are in the armed forces; available labor supplies have been depleted by war industry and agriculture; even the skid-rows of large cities are empty of idle men. Should the fire season turn out to be a bad one, we shall all be in a tough spot.

"Never before has the need been so urgent for civilian participation in the battle against fire. First, we must set our own house in order by reducing the number of fires started by careless though patriotic Californians. Second, we must build up a reserve of fire fighters and behind-the-line specialists to help the protection agencies in an emergency. These things we can all do as a part of our war effort, and at the same time help redeem our responsibility by taking an active part in the fire prevention campaign and joining the Forest Fire Fighters Service."

Hillcrest Druids Invite

There will be many attractive prizes, including cash first and second awards.

A short business meeting for circle members will precede the public whist party.

Red Cross Motor
Corps Seeks Volunteers

An immediate need for Red Cross motor corps drivers was expressed, this week, by Mrs. Richard McLaren, motor corps captain for the San Mateo County chapter, American Red Cross. branch of the Red Cross are asked to call the motor corps desk, volunteer special service headquarters of the San Mateo County Red Cross, El Camino Real and Santa Inez, San Mateo.

Mrs. McLaren pointed out that women who wear the trim grey-blue uniform of the Red Cross motor corps perform a vital war service in the field of transportation and communication. Motor corps volunteer drivers serve every branch of the Red Cross, she explained. Included in chapter motor corps activities are transportation in connection with the blood donor service, the home service department, and the canteen corps.

Victory canning is food insurance

Though conserving on canned goods alters our food buying somewhat, it's no time to slight the nutritional standards of our menu. That's why canning foods at home is becoming a major kitchen industry. Foresightedness now means better nutrition, better menus, and more food enjoyment later on.

If you're a first-timer, and there will be many this year, there's no reason to be overwhelmed at the prospect of home canning. Just remember that there are rules to be followed, and if these rules are adhered to carefully, then there should be no difficulty.

GET THE LATEST INFORMATION—Old hands at canning as well as beginners should look to the newest information and material on canning for their rules. Grandmother's methods were all right for her day, but new discoveries about vitamins, minerals, and other nutritional facts have outmoded information of even a few seasons back. So, just as you wouldn't follow an outmoded pattern for making a dress, neither should you follow outdated directions for home canning.

CLEANLINESS AND STERILIZATION

One of the first and most important rules in home canning is cleanliness and sterilization. It is not too much to say that you should be almost fanatical on this point if you don't want to lose foods through spoilage. That's why we recommend that canning be done in small lots rather than all at once.

Sterilization includes the equipment, jars, lids, and the food itself. The bacteria and yeasts which ruin foods must be destroyed in the canning and processing if the food is to keep and be safe to eat.

Non-acid vegetables, (which means all vegetables except tomatoes and peppers) fish, poultry, and meats (all of which are non-acid foods) HAVE to be heated to a temperature of 240°F. to 250°F.—far above the boiling point (212°F.)—in order to destroy the organisms which cause botulism (food poisoning) and other types of spoilage. That is why it is imperative that a pressure cooker be used for the sterilization of these foods. However, it is not necessary to have a pressure cooker in order to can fruits, tomatoes, and peppers.

WHEN TO CAN—Can foods when they are in full season. It is more economical then. And can them at their peak of freshness, too, to capture all their vitamins and minerals.

NEWS ON BURT COOKING
